Society Puts Its House in Order

WITH the arrival of October the tide of travel is turning homeward, and the Union Station is piled high with luggage. The broad avenues and streets in the residential section are also assuming a more cheerful and human aspect as summer shutters are taken down and large-proof doors removed.

And in many instances society is returning to the echoing strains of Lohegrin's Wedding March. The blushing bride and her trousseau are to play a very important part in things social from now on until December ushers in the demure debutantes.

From present indications it begins to look as if this is to be a banner year for local marriages. Engagements are being announced daily, and in most instances the wedding is scheduled to take place during October and November.

Miss Helen Wilson is the first bride of the autumn to claim society's undivided attention. Her marriage to Mr. Thomas Perry Lippitt will take place on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany. The Rev. Dr. Randolph McKim will perform the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Freeland Peter.

Miss Wilson, whose charming personality has won her many friends, belongs to a prominent Washington family, and her ancestors have held many distinguished positions. Mr. Lippitt is a well-known diplomat, and while a resident of Washington, owns large plantations in Porto Rico, where he spends part of the year.

Mrs. Nelson Chancellor Burwell, of Parkersburg, W. Va., will be matron of honor, and Miss Rose Greely, daughter of Maj. Gen. Adolphus Greely, U. S. A., retired, who will arrive from San Francisco tomorrow, will be maid of honor.

Miss Wilson's bridesmaids are to be Miss Talbot, Miss Marie Durant, niece of the bride; Miss Lillie Anderson, and Miss Marion Parker. Little Miss Carroll Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason Martin, of Parkersburg, W. Va., is to be the bride's flower girl. Miss Wilson will be given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles Frederick Wilson.

Mr. Lippitt will have his cousin, Mr. Thornton Perry, of Charlestown, W. Va., as best man, and his others are to be Mr. Roger Chew, of New York; Mr. William Alayne, of Havana, Cuba; Mr. Robert Shriver, of Baltimore, Md.; Mr. Clairborn A. Wilson, brother of the bride; Mr. Henderson Gregory, and Mr. Bowdoin Craigbill, both of Washington.

A small reception at the Washington Club will follow the church ceremony.

An out-of-town wedding of interest to society at the National Capital will take place at noon on Saturday when Miss Harriet Travers Wadsworth, daughter of former Representative and Mr. James Wolcott Wadsworth, and Mr. Fletcher Harper are married at St. Michael's Church in Genesee, N. Y. A reception at the home of the bride will follow the ceremony. A number of Washingtonians will go to Genesee to attend the wedding.

Miss Wadsworth, who is extremely handsome, has been a belle in Washington and New York society ever since she made her debut. Mr. Harper belongs to an old New York family, and is well known for his skill as a polo player.

Count Albert de Chambrier, military attaché of the French Embassy, who was recently promoted to major of artillery, will sail on October 22 to rejoin his regiment. Countess de Chambrier, with their children, will accompany him to France. They will be greatly missed, for they have taken a prominent part in diplomatic life here, and have contributed much to the hospitality and the gaiety obtaining in Washington during the last few years. Countess de Chambrier, before her marriage to the popular young Frenchman, was Miss Clara Longworth, daughter of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Countess de Chambrier besides her social gifts, has much literary ability, and in spite of her busy society life, has found time to write a book which will shortly be issued by Putnam & Co. of New York and London. It is called "The Sonnets of Shakespeare: New Light and Old Evidence."

The countess has always been an ardent student of Shakespeare, and during her residence here her researches have been carried on at the Library of Congress. While she has studied the subject profoundly, she has handled it with a delicate touch and the book is chatty throughout, which brings it within the enjoyment of the average reader, and yet loses none of the real information which she imparts. She is also having reprinted some interesting documents long since buried in oblivion, which throw an entirely new light upon Shakespeare's place in the history of his times—notably his sympathy with the Essex conspiracy.

Countess de Chambrier has selected a most unusual topic, and she is being warmly congratulated on her achievement by her friends here and elsewhere. It is not unusual for society women who reside here to write books, but they are generally in lighter vein, either fiction or reminiscences. It is reported that Mrs. William Howard Taft has written an account of her four years in the White House, and that it will appear shortly in a current magazine. It will be eagerly read by a large and interested public.

The President, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Prof. A. S. Allen, and his naval aid, Dr. Cary Grayson, U. S. N., accompanied by a box at the Belasco Theatre last night.

America's Most Distinguished Actress

MRS. FISKE

IN HER GREATEST SUCCESS

"TESS OF THE D'URBERVILLES"

A Soulful Portrayal of a Woman's Sorrows

Mrs. Fiske is the artistic materialization of the dramatic soul of America. She exemplifies the spirit and essence of our national ideals and art. She is the living and intense symbol of the dramatic aspirations and ambitions of the Western World. In this magnificent production of Thomas Hardy's tragic romance she repeats before the camera the success she achieved on the stage, and her legion of admirers will not be disappointed. The play, a pathetic record of a woman's pitiful career, an immortal epic of sorrow, lends itself splendidly to photographic reproduction and abounds in strong dramatic situations. As the ill-fated Tess, Mrs. Fiske acts with all the intense emotion that has made her famous, and in her support are many of the players who appeared in the original production of the play. Picture lovers are indeed assured a rare treat in the appearance of Mrs. Fiske in "Tess of the d'Urbervilles." To be seen today, tomorrow, and Tuesday at MOORE'S GARDEN THEATER, 423 9th St. N. W., in a 5-part Motion Picture Production by the Famous Players' Film Co., under direction of Daniel Frohman.

Dr. Remick while Mr. Hess was home on furlough from the army, as he had enlisted in the Fifth United States Cavalry just before the beginning of the civil war, and served through the entire conflict, the only serious wound which he received in that time being a shot through the left arm. Mr. Hess is in his seventy-fifth year, Mrs. Hess being a year younger, and both enjoying good health.

Many handsome remembrances of the occasion were received, which included a purse of gold from their children, of whom there are ten living, out of a family of thirteen, nine of these being present, the only absentee being Mr. J. Albert Hess, an electrician employed in the construction of the Panama Canal.
